More than $200,000 in workers' comp insurance dividends distributed to Chamber members

The Aurora Chamber of Commerce will distribute $202,107 in workers' compensation general dividend checks for the general dividend period 2010-2011 to members who have maintained safe workplaces. For the same time period the association earned a total of $208,854. The checks come from Pinnacol Assurance, The Chamber's workers' compensation insurer, which provides comprehensive, competitively priced coverage; in-depth attention to claims; a highly qualified network of medical providers; and proactive safety programs for approximately 55,000 Colorado businesses.

"We are thrilled that our Chamber Association members are receiving a general dividend. It's a good example of a great return on investment," said Kevin Hougen, president and CEO of The Aurora Chamber of Commerce.

Pinnacol's board of directors declared a general dividend of $37.5 million for the general dividend period 2010-2011. More than 52,000 businesses throughout the state – roughly 90 percent of the company's policyholders – will receive a dividend.

The general dividend rewards Pinnacol policyholders who are committed to workplace safety and good claims management practices. Dividend checks are calculated based on the size of a policyholder's annual premium compared with claims costs. Association members receive a general dividend if their association, as a whole, has maintained a qualifying loss ratio and have contributed to Pinnacol's surplus.

"Pinnacol's continued financial stability and strength allow us to return money to our policyholders," said Ken Ross, Pinnacol president and CEO. "This dividend offers some relief to businesses that continue to feel the pain of the slow

Chair

Chair's Letter

Dave Gruber, our 2011-2012 chair of the Chamber Board is often heard asking "What has the Chamber done for us lately?"

Well, as I begin my term as the chair of the Board, let me say that Dave really did one heck of a lot for all of us lately! His leadership and commitment has driven the Chamber forward – through some turbulent and challenging economic times.

I'm both humbled and excited to be taking the reins of leadership from Dave. He has been a tremendous leader and an emissary for all of us. Despite the difficult economic times we've encountered the last few years, he kept the Chamber firmly focused this past year on the important issues that will help ensure success and sustainability in the future. The toughest time to be a leader is when times are tough—and Dave certainly rose to the challenge.

I look forward to this next year – and in keeping with this year's Awards Banquet theme of "Growing Together" – I will continue the mission of enhancing the value of the Aurora Chamber of Commerce to the business, professional and political communities we serve. I believe we have the opportunity to focus our efforts on collaboration with our community partners during what appears to be an improving economic environment.

Aurora is a growing, vibrant, and diverse economic powerhouse in the areas of healthcare and biosciences, military, retail, professional services, and transportation. My hat's off to the great leadership we have in Aurora City government – to Mayor Steve Hogan, who has a dynamic vision for our city; to an outstanding City Council – who along with City Manager Skip Noe continue to keep Aurora on the move; to Wendy Mitchell and her team at the Aurora Economic Development Council and Accelerate Colorado, who put Aurora front and center in the eyes of business developers and our political leaders; to Gary Wheat and his staff at Visit Aurora who are positioning Aurora as a destination tourist, convention and conference center; and, to all of our business partners and Chamber members who continue to weather the difficult economic climate, yet still find ways to expand and build for the future.

I also want to recognize and offer a tremendous debt of gratitude to Aurora's and the Eastern Metro's State Legislative Delegation. These tireless senators and representatives dedicate so much time, energy and talent in representing all of us under the Gold Dome at Colorado's State Capitol.

Many thanks also go to Colorado's Congressional Delegation – especially Congressmen Perlmutter and Coffman who have passionately represented Aurora and our surrounding neighbors; and our thanks as well to Senators Udall and Bennet. When Aurora calls, these representatives listen and act!

There are many challenges that lay ahead, and I look forward to all of the collaborations that will continue to move Aurora forward!

It is a tremendous honor to be offered the opportunity to lead this remarkable organization. As members of the business, professional, and political communities, all of you have seen what the Chamber can do. I look forward to working with Kevin and his Aurora Chamber team, as well as with the Board of Directors, as we continue on a solid and steady path to navigate through these challenging, yet what I foresee as very promising, and opportunistic times.

Jeff Thompson, the 2012-2013 chair of the Aurora Chamber of Commerce board of directors, is the director of Government & Corporate Relations for University of Colorado Health. Prior to his appointment as chair of the Board of Directors, he served chair of the Government Affairs and Education committee, and as vice chair for Public Issues, which includes Government Affairs and Education, and the Healthcare and Transportation committees.

- Coast Guard: Petty Officer 2nd Class Travis Klein, Coast Guard Cryptologic Unit, Colorado,

Also singled out for special recognition was Gian Gondolfo, who received the Bob Cardenas Award for exceptional support of the military in the Metro area. Gondolfo is general manager of the Hilton Garden Inn DIA and has worked quietly behind the scenes in support of deployed troops and their spouses.

The crowd of more than 600 supporters from metro businesses and government at the Crowne Plaza Hotel DIA was initially welcomed to the event by 7th District Congressman Ed Perlmutter.

Keynote speaker was Maj. Gen. Marty Whelen, Director of Requirements for Air Force Space Command in Colorado Springs. He is also the former vice commander of the 460th Space Wing at Buckley. He was introduced by 6th District Congressman Mike Coffman.

Master of Ceremony duties were performed by the popular KEZW Radio personality Rick Crandall, an Air Force veteran, who has volunteered for the event for 10 years.

"Our military men and women are second to none. We are very appreciative of your commitment as you continue to uphold the great traditions of our free nation," said Chamber President and CEO Kevin Hougen. Hougen also offered high praise for Suzanne Pitrusu from Colorado Business Bank who chaired the Chamber Defense Council committee which organizes the event. "Suzanne and her committee did an outstanding job of making this a truly memorable afternoon," he said.

The Chamber's Mission

The mission of the Aurora Chamber of Commerce is to serve as a voice for the business community, acting as an advocate for its members on issues that affect their growth and long-term economic vitality.

DON'T FORGET: "Every employee of a Chamber member is a member of The Chamber"

The American Institute of Architects Denver Chapter (AIA Denver), Blue Spruce Habitat for Humanity, Adolfson & Peterson Construction (A&P), and volunteers from the local subcontracting community recently gathered to begin construction on a Habitat for Humanity Colorado/Blue Spruce Habitat for Humanity construction site.

A&P is working alongside Blue Spruce Habitat for Humanity, assisting with construction management on the project, as well as leading the construction effort. To date, the A&P team has raised more than $100,000 in donations of cash, labor, and materials, and the generosity of their subcontracting community. These donations have allowed upgrades in the habitat house, including the use of sips exterior panels, and other energy-efficiency upgrades.

In addition to the donations, the subcontractors and A&P staff will donate time and labor on the jobsite to work with the A&P teams of suppliers and subcontractors to build this project in the field alongside the homeowner, AIA and other Habitat volunteers.

"A&P is honored to have the chance to give back to the Colorado community. Habitat for Humanity is an organization we believe in and we are proud to be a part of something bigger than ourselves," said John Herrera, General Superintendent for A&P's Rocky Mountain Region.

Anchor Network Solutions hires first graduate of "Boots to Suits" program

A new member of the Anchor Network Solutions team was featured in a 9NEWS story in February 2012. Tyler Heath, who spent 20 months as a soldier in Iraq, was highlighted as a student in a CU Denver program called "Boots to Suits." The program is designed to ease the transition for graduating veterans.

"We're very excited to have Tyler as part of our team and feel an immense sense of duty to hire veterans returning to the workforce. Tyler's background and experience can be translated to the business world with a little bit of coaching and experience, and I'm very committed to helping him succeed," said Anchor Network Solutions CEO Vince Tinnirello.

Heath's mentor is an Air Force veteran who also happens to be a Chamber member: RTL CEO Richard Lewis. One of the first things Lewis told Heath is that his skills will be valuable in the world of business.

Tinnirello said he wholeheartedly agrees with that.

Dry Dock Brewing announces expansion plans

Chamber member Dry Dock Brewing Company is moving its production operations to a 30,000 sq. ft. building south of I-70 on Tower Road. This second location will house a 4-vessel, 40 barrel brewhouse that will eventually be capable of producing more than 60,000 barrels of beer per year (one barrel is 31 U.S. gallons). The new facility should be producing beer by the end of 2012, aiming to brew 12,000 barrels in its first year. Dry Dock plans to start by focusing its distribution in Colorado, and will consider out of state markets in 2014.

Currently, Dry Dock distributes in 22oz glass "bomber" bottles which it has been doing since January 2011. It also plans to package in aluminum cans in the new production facility. "We will continue to produce the Double IPA, Bligh's Barleywine and other seasonals in bombers while putting our Apricot Blonde, Hefeweizen, Amber and a hoppy beer in cans," says co-owner Michelle DeLange. "We also intend to offer champagne style bottles with cork/cage finish for barrel-aged and sour beers that are produced in later years," adds co-owner Kevin DeLange.

The current Dry Dock Brewery location at 15120 E. Hampden Ave., will continue its dual roles of a working brewery and flagship tasting room, but will no longer be challenged by the ever-growing production demands. With the exception of some limited draught only releases, all distribution will come from the new facility, so the present brewery can be used for experimental, barrel-aged, and sour beers. "We will be able to play even more on our current system. Although it is small, it has all the capabilities of step mashing and decoction that our new, larger brewery will have – so it will be a perfect pilot system," Kevin said.

Dry Dock was founded in 2005 by Michelle and Kevin DeLange next to The Brew Hut, their homebrew and winemaking shop. In April 2006, Dry Dock won a gold at the World Beer Cup for its HMS Victory ESB in the Special or Best Bitter Category. Since then, Dry Dock has won 3 additional World Beer Cup awards and 11 Great American Beer Festival medals including Small Brewing Company of the Year in 2009. Dry Dock currently sells 70 percent of its 3,000 bbl/yr beer production in its tasting room. It also self-distributes in the Denver metro area.

Aurora Chamber Spotlight on: Mark Werner, Great Western Printing

Mark Werner and his wife Connie own and operate Great Western Printing, a full-service printing company based in Aurora. They opened the business in 1992, and are proud of their reputation of quality, customer service, and pricing – as well as adhering to those ever-crucial deadlines!

It turns out that printing has been in Mark's blood for most of his life. He tells it that by age 13 he was delivering print from coast to coast – and that he had some early career opportunities to work with Fortune 500 companies, including Martin Marietta, Honeywell, and Hewlett Packard. At one point in his career, Mark was running the entire print department for a reputable DTC printing firm, receiving additional acclaim.

2011 was a record year for Great Western Printing, and Mark credits that success to many things, including his dedication to the trade by engaging in continuing education in the latest training in color, print production, and the newest and most effective marketing materials. He also believes that much of the business' success is because of the relationships made possible through his involvement in the Aurora Chamber of Commerce.

Mark's involvement in the Chamber spans a broad range, including the Business for the Arts Committee, the Defense Council, and his very active participation in the Ambassador Program. Mark has truly invested his time and effort in the Chamber, and has therefore reaped the rewards. In fact, one of those rewards was in the form of a prestigious award in April 2012, when he was named the Ambassador of the Year for 2011. Congrats Mark!
